REVOLUTION.

The Greeks Threaten to Overturn the Government.

KING MAY BE ASSASSINATED.

A Republic May Grow Out of the Chaos.

PLEASED WITH GREEK D'F AT.

New York, April 28.—The Greeks are terribly agitated over recent reverses and revolution becomes more and more imminent every hour. An assault on the King may be expected and its occurrence at any moment would be no matter of surprise to observers to observers of the situation.

Athens, April 27.—Popular feeling points to a revolution in favor of a republic. The citizens are greatly excited at the revelations made by former Minister Ralli as to the conduct of the campaign. Today large meetings have been held in Constitution Square and other places, and fiery harangues have been delivered by well known orators in denunciation of "those who would betray Greece."

This afternoon 500 men formed themselves into a volunteer body, forced their way into the gunsmiths' shops, armed themselves with rifles and revolvers and paraded the streets in front of M. Ralli's residence. Several deputies addressed them, exhorting them to remain calm and await the progress of events. Finally they proceeded to the royal palace, where, after making a demonstration, they dispersed without further disorder. The incident has made a great sensation.

London, April 27.—A dispatch to the "Daily Mail" from Paris says that the Greek Cabinet has resigned.

Constantinople, April 27.—The successes of Turkish troops in Thessaly have caused the greatest satisfaction in military circles here. It is now believed Edhem Pasha will occupy the port of Volo and the important town of Trikala, almost due west of Larissa, and about forty miles from that place, with the view of strengthening his position. The Turkish government will then call upon Greece to evacuate the island of Crete on the condition that the Ottoman troops are withdrawn from Thessaly.

After the occupation of Trikala by the Turkish forces the Greeks in Epirus will find themselves between the troops under Ahmed Hiti Pasha and those of Edhem Pasha and in danger of being cut off from the rest of the Hellenic forces.

Athens, April 27.—A deputation of citizens sent from Volo to Larissa has been assured by the Turkish commanders that the people of Thessaly have nothing to fear from the invaders.

London, April 27.—A special dispatch from Constantinople announces that the Sultan has recalled Osman Pasha in order to avoid embarrassing Edhem Pasha.

PRESERVES PEACE OF EUROPE.

Russian View of the Defeat of the Greeks.

Constantinople, April 28.—In political circles here pleasure is experienced at the defeat of the Greeks, as it is looked upon as calculated to avert dangerous complications in the Balkans, which might have jeopardized the peace of Europe.

Constantinople, April 28.—The European Cabinets are exchanging views with regard to the expediency of mediating between Turkey and Greece.

The King's Life in Danger.

London, April 27.—The "Evening News" this afternoon publishes a dispatch from Athens, dated 3:10 p. m., and saying the people there are frightfully incensed at the retreat of the troops. The dispatch further states that the bitterness against King George and his government is intensified by the news that the Greek army in Epirus has been ordered to suspend operations, pending reconsideration of the situation by the ministers. Continuing, the dispatch says: "Indeed, it looks probable that to-morrow will see the end of the whole business. There is reason to believe the government is contemplating the withdrawal of the Greek troops from Crete and an appeal to the Powers to settle the troubles. This change upon the part of the government is due to Edhem Pasha having intimated his intention of marching upon Athens."

A dispatch received at one of the embassies here from Athens says that King George of Greece, may at any moment be deposed or assassinated.

and that the mob is likely to take possession of the city.

The dispatch adds that the worst is feared. In all probability the Greek nation will try one more great battle, and if defeated in this it is not unlikely that there will be a change in the royal family at Athens. Discontent is growing, and the King will be the scapegoat.

PORT FRANKFORT MONDAY.

Sheriff Holland Will Carry Up Female Prisoners.

Sheriff Holland will leave Monday for Frankfort with Barbara Rankin, Lizzie Harris and Josie Mansfield, the three women sentenced at the recent term of court.

He will also take all the witness claims to Frankfort to be cashed.

DEBOE ELECTED.

He Gets Seventy-One Votes on First Ballot.

BLACKBURN 50, MARTIN 13.

A Scene of Pandemonium Broken Loose Follows.

THE FIRST U. S. SENATOR FROM THE GIBRALTAR.

DEBOE 71, BLACKBURN 50, MARTIN 13, STONE 1.

Frankfort, April 28, 11 a. m.—(Special to the Sun.)—Deboe will have the honor of being the first United States senator that ever went from the Gibraltar district. His election on the first ballot today is assured. Every Republican member is here and will support the nominee.

E. M. FARMER.

Frankfort, April 28.—The result of the ballot today, fully verified the claims made by Senator Deboe that he would be elected today. On the first ballot Mr. Deboe received 71 votes, Blackburn 50, Martin 13, Stone 1, giving Deboe a majority of seven over all. The announcement of the result was the signal for pandemonium and there was the wildest confusion on the Republican while hats and canes were waved aloft and every member strained his vocal organs in an apparent effort to louden louder than his neighbor. One enthusiast tore up his hat in his excitement as a memento of the occasion.

Expressions of satisfaction with the result are general among Republicans and even Democrats feel a sense of relief and are glad the strain is over and that the legislature may now get down to business and pass some of the pressing legislation of the session.

SEVENTY DROWNED IN OKLAHOMA

A Severe Cyclone Rages in Kansas—Great Destruction of Property.

THREE CHILDREN CREMATED IN NEW YORK.

San Luis, Mex., April 18.—The most terrible hail storm ever seen here was that which visited this valley yesterday afternoon. The immense hailstones fell for several minutes at a terrific rate and people who were caught out without protection were simply hammered to death by the merciless missiles. Forty-one persons are known to have been killed a number of others were seriously injured. Stock of all kinds was likewise slain and all kinds of property suffered.

There is much loss of stock also and the distress following upon the heels of the flood will be great.

Later.—Later advices indicate that the loss of life will be heavier than indicated above and that fifty dwellings have been swept away.

COSBY NOT DEAD.

He and His Wife Are in a Critical Condition.

Doctors in Constant Attendance—Have Relatives Here.

The report sent out from Mayfield yesterday to the effect that James Cosby and wife were dead which proved premature. They are today reported still in a critical condition.

They live one mile southeast of Mayfield, and are lying at the point of death as the result of eating canned blackberries at dinner Monday. They have been suffering intense agony since.

Two Physicians have been in constant attendance upon them. Cosby is about 50 years old and is the oldest son of the late Squire Frank Cosby, who was instantly killed by a boiler explosion at a saw mill last summer.

This is the second case of the poisoning in this city from eating canned goods this month. Cosby is a prominent man, and a relative of Street Inspector Cosby and Officer Dick Sutherland, of the city.

This afternoon Street Inspector Cosby received a telephone message asking him to come at once to Mayfield. He and Officer Sutherland leave on the 6 o'clock train tonight.

WAYWARD GIRL.

Relatives Arrive to Take Her Back Home.

Four men arrived in the city today and called at police headquarters this afternoon. One claimed that Minnie Simmons, his cousin, and a very young girl, had run away from home, and was somewhere about the city, living with strangers.

He said she had been led astray by some scoundrel, and asked Marshal Collins to take possession of her and see if she could not be persuaded to return home. The men are said to be from Huntington, Tenn., and did not give their names.

ON HIS WAY HOME.

Henry Keeton Wanted Help From the City.

Henry Keeton, who lives in Henderson, was at the city hall this morning seeking assistance home. He has been at work at Saxon, Ill., but became ill and started home to his mother and sisters. He was not assisted.

Hon. W. M. Reed presided as judge pro tem of the circuit court today. Laura Ingram was granted a divorce from Will Ingram. The other orders were unopposed.

A FISH STORY.

This is What John H. Davis Told.

SAID HE WAS POISONED.

Was Charged With Drunkenness in the Police Court.

SMALL DOCKET TODAY.

J. H. Davis, the old man who keeps the government light on the towhead, opposite the Illinois Central Incline, was presented in Judge Sanders' court this morning on a charge of drunkenness.

"What do you plead?" asked the court.

"Well, all I've got to say is that I was poisoned, and not drunk," was Davis' reply.

"Who poisoned you?" asked the court.

"Nancy Collins," was the reply. "You can get the bottle and see for yourself."

"You didn't have any bottle," interjected Marshal Collins. "You had it all inside of you," he added with a smile.

The usual fine was assessed. Davis stated to a reporter after court that he had a bottle of liquor and that the woman had possession of it before he drank from it. He said she put poison in it, but the authorities did not credit his story.

After court Davis wanted a warrant against the woman and Alex Scott, colored, for stealing some of his property, but there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the charge. The Collins woman was there and denied the stories Davis told. She has been living over at the towhead with Davis ever since her husband, Jim Collins, was sent to the penitentiary in January for two years, for breaking into a shanty boat.

Information was brought over from Brooklyn today that she had eloped with Alex Scott, the darkey, but this was proven to be untrue by her presence at the city hall. Scott's whereabouts are unknown.

The case against Pat Miller, colored, charged with dumping a quantity of fish off down about the foot of Washington street, was dismissed.

John Hamilton, alias "Fencing John," colored, admitted to the court that he deposited the refuse there while drunk, and would have known better had he been sober.

He was so honest that Judge Sanders let him off on condition that he at once carry the filth away.

The case against Thomas Griffin, for a breach of the peace, was again continued.

George Trice, Tandy Reeves and Squire Ford, colored, were recognized to appear tomorrow and answer to a charge of vagrancy. They were arrested last night. All chronic vagrants will hereafter be put to work on the streets.

PRETTY WEDDING.

Mr. Horace Vaughan and Miss Dow Husbands United.

LARGE NUMBER OF GUESTS.

Revs. Cave and Pinkerton Officiated in the Ceremony.

WENT WEST ON A BRIDAL TOUR.

The nuptials of Mr. Horace Vaughan and Miss Dow Husbands, an event of no small significance in local society, were solemnized at 10 o'clock this forenoon at the First Presbyterian church, Rev. W. E. Cave, of that church, and Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, of the First Christian church, officiating.

The edifice was full to overflowing with fashionable people when Prof. Charles Davis began the wedding march. The groomsmen marched up in opposite sides to the altar and ranged themselves on each side of the railing. They were: Judge L. M. Quigley, Messrs. Richard Rudy, Ed Rivers, Tom Leonard, Saunders Fowler and A. S. Thompson.

The bridesmaids followed in the same order, stationing themselves against a beautiful background of dogwood blossoms and potted palms, which completely obscured the organ. They were: Misses Adine and Cherry Morton, Mary Burnett, Annie Cherry, Adie Hart and Mary Flournoy.

The groom, Mr. Horace Vaughan, went up the right-hand aisle, in handsome dress suit, on the arm of his best man, Mr. Edward Vaughan, his brother. The bride, Miss Dow Husbands went up the opposite aisle with the bridesmaid, Miss Clara Puryear. She looked beautiful in a dress of white mousseline de soie, overtopped with silk, and carried a shaded bunch of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids wore white Paris mouslin over yellow.

The party was met at the altar by Revs. Cave and Pinkerton, the former pronounced the ceremony in an impressive manner, supplemented by a prayer from Rev. Pinkerton and an invocation from Rev. Cave.

The bride party then repaired to the residence of the bride's father, Col. L. D. Husbands, on Jefferson street, where a sumptuous banquet was served.

Mr. Vaughan requires no introduction to Paducah. He is eldest son of the late Mr. E. W. Vaughan, and is a young man of both wealth and culture, holding a prominent position with the Wm. Clark tobacco syndicate, of Liverpool, England.

This charming young bride has ever been popular in Paducah society, and among all who knew her. She is a daughter of Col. L. D. Husbands, one of the most prominent lawyers in the state, and is a young lady of many graces and accomplishments.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan received many beautiful presents as tokens of remembrance and best wishes. They left at noon for a bridal tour to Denver, Colo., and other cities.

Take the double excursion trip to Cairo and return on the steamers Dick and Gus Fowler next Sunday, May 2nd. The Paducah and Cairo Baseball League teams play there. 75 cents for the round trip. ANNOUNCEMENTS.
The "Sun" is authorized to announce J. J. DORRAN
As a candidate for the first district of the Kentucky legislature.

The old Dent homestead in which General Grant, the famous young captain, lately returned from the Mexican war, lived and won and subsequently married Miss Julia Dent, a reigning belle of St. Louis society, is still standing in that city, and is a substantial dwelling today, occupied as a boarding house.

General Weyler reports that more than half the island of Cuba is pacified, yet he orders the destruction of a large number of towns within the "pacified" territory. It is not usually found necessary to revitalize a peaceful country with fire and sword; to visit with death and destruction a people who are not at war.

It is unfortunate that in the hour of her greatest peril from within Greece should be compelled to grapple with dissensions and possible rebellion from within. There is not another throne in all Europe or the world occupied by a man so thoroughly worthy and devoted to his people, so unselfishly devoted to their good as King George of Greece.

The silver Democrats of Chicago, have split and a new judicial ticket will be put into the field by dissenters who are dissatisfied with the ticket nominated last Saturday. They are also sadly disappointed in the newly elected Mayor, Carter H. Harrison. The probabilities are the split will result in the nomination of a second judicial ticket by the bolting Democrats, and the triumph election of the Republican ticket.

The armies of Edhem Pasha have been pillaging and murdering the helpless Greeks in a way that sends the cold chills down one's back.
But the Americans have become accustomed to that sort of thing. It has been going on so close to their doors that the stench in their nostrils is unbearable. Edhem and his pagan soldiers occupy second place as compared with Weyler and the Spaniards.

The Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, the eloquent Chicago divine, who has done such a great work in connection with the Armor Institute and Plymouth church, of Chicago, will likely be called to the Broadway tabernacle in New York. Rev. Gunsaulus has few equals as a pulpit orator, and should he go to the great metropolis of the American continent he will wake many from their lethargy, aside from his oratory he is a most assiduous and effective worker in the field in various ways.

The English Secretary for Foreign Affairs announced in the House of Commons on Monday in effect that until Greece clothed herself in becoming humility and with assurances of future obedience to the mandates of the powers begged their intervention, she would be left to the mercy of the barbarous Turk. "Man's inhumanity to man" was never more thoroughly exemplified than in the attitude of the great powers toward Greece, to the righteousness of whose cause the whole world testifies.

The Spanish vessel, the Maria Theresa, the pride of the Spanish navy, was among the vessels which yesterday took part in the naval display in honor of General Grant at the dedication ceremonies. She was the subject of a great deal of interest on the part of the people and hundreds desired to visit and inspect her. Her officers were, however, very careful whom they admitted, for fear of a Cuban bomb, and required

A PECULIAR LOCOMOTIVE.

The oldest thing in the shape of a railroad locomotive which has come to Chicago in recent years is running on the Chicago & West Michigan railway. It is a locomotive fitted with an improved engine in front, and is designed for looking over the roadway of the company which owns it. The locomotive is one of the regular Chicago & West Michigan engines which was found to be too light for passenger service. It was rebuilt and a standard engine put over the job. The locomotive will hold six people and contains steam heat and air brake connections. It is used by the officials of the road in making inspections, and furnishes a novel and delightful method of seeing the track.

the endorsement of the Spanish Consul for every one as a prelude to admission.
EX-SECRETARY HEDBERT says the people of the South are the most conservative people in the United States.
It will be hard for time to sustain his position with regard to at least a part of the South, when it is remembered what a hold the Federalists, who advocate more radical changes of policy and more innovations in government than all other parties together, have gained in some of the states. That South Carolina liquor law, for example, is not very conservative, either.

Col. Wm. G. KNIFEEN, a gallant Union officer lately resident in Chicago, who received a wound in the neck which necessitated the insertion of a silver tube to facilitate breathing, having failed to secure a pension and having suffered severe reverses of fortune was compelled a short time since to enter the soldier's home at Quincy, Ill. He had been there barely two weeks when a government check for $11,414 reached him, with the announcement of a handsome monthly allowance, which enabled him to leave the charitable institution and return to his old home in comfortable circumstances.
Too often are the benefactions of the government delayed beyond the time when they can benefit those who have so well earned them.

In connection with the Grant monument the circumstances of his successful opposition to President Johnson's proposed prosecution of General Lee for treason is recalled.
Having by the terms of the surrender at Appomattox guaranteed amnesty to the Rebel leaders so long as they should observe the terms of their parole, General Grant felt that the course proposed would involve his own personal honor, and after an unsuccessful remonstrance with the President he threatened to "resign the command of the army and leave the people to decide." President Johnson was well aware of the strength of General Grant at that time before the people, and chose rather to yield the point than risk the result of so important a step on the part of the lately victorious Lieutenant General of the Union forces. The act was duly appreciated by General Lee and the other Southern leaders. General Grant had previously, in a personal letter to General Lee, given him assurance that the construction the latter had placed on the terms of surrender was correct.

OSMAN PASHA, the hero of Plevna, who has just been ordered to succeed Edhem Pasha in command of the Turkish army, is said to be an American, his real name being Crawford, according to the statement of Police Sergeant Holliday, of Chicago. Mr. Holliday says he was born 63 years ago in East Tennessee.
He was appointed as ensign to West Point, but got into trouble with his superior officers and was dismissed in disgrace for insubordination. When the first Tennessee battery was commissioned captain. In 1863 he was authorized to raise a regiment of artillery and succeeded in organizing five batteries. In 1864 Col. Craford, as he was then called, was dismissed from the service on a charge of appropriating property to his own use. He then went to Mexico where he obtained a commission in the Mexican army. Crawford continued in the Mexican army until after the war and then became wealthy through his interests in some mines. When peace was restored Crawford resigned his commission and went to New Jersey, where he purchased an estate, but soon grew tired of leading such a quiet life. His next step was to join the Turkish army, where he rapidly rose to the front and won great distinction at the battle of Plevna in the Russo-Turkish war.

"DAVID GARRICK."

A Faultless Presentation at Morton's Last Night.

BY THE COLUMBIAN CLUB.

A Large Fashionable Audience Was Present to Enjoy It.

WAS A SPLendid SUCCESS

The fifth annual entertainment of the Catholic Columbian Club at Morton's opera house last night was characterized by a larger crowd, more enthusiasm and better acting than any previous anniversary. The dual bill, "A Proposal Under Difficulties," by John Kendrick Bangs, and the three-act comedy, "David Garrick," were faultlessly presented by members of the club.

The crowds began arriving early, and by 8:30 o'clock there were few seats left.
Down in orchestra row was a novelty in the shape of an orchestra of young ladies, who composed the St.
Mary's Mammolin Club, and rendered the music for the occasion.

There were two box parties: Mrs.
George Flannery, and Misses Jeanette Campbell and Maude Bradshaw, and Messrs. Maurice Nash and Hense Harris occupying the left box; and Miss Madge Tucker and Mr. Richard Rudy the other.

The curtain rose on the drawing room scene in the skit, "A Proposal Under Difficulties." Mr. Will Farley, as "Mr. Yardsley," delivers a lively soliloquy while awaiting the arrival of his "adored one," Miss Dorothy Andrews, and finally rehearses, for the purpose of improving his quality of courage and at the same time becoming more familiar with the speech he is to make, the proposal. He implants his knees on the floor and reels it all off, his fully unaware of the presence of Jessie, a maid, who assumes the responsibility of then and there giving young Yardsley a favorable answer, to his amazement and chagrin. At this juncture Mr. Barlow, a duke, arrives, bent on the same mission as Mr.
Yardsley, but he is more fortunate in not proposing to the servant through inadvertence. Barlow and Yardsley create much mirth in their efforts to get rid of one another and have the coast clear, but Miss Andrews, the hostess, arrives, and for a time it is difficult to discern who will get the engage, or in more modern parlance, who will "get it in the neck."

Mr. Will Farley did very clever work, and was original and funny to a pleasing degree. Mr. Randolph Stenhouse as "Barlow" made a typical "chappie," depicting trifles quite foreign to his nature. It might be added to his credit as a humorist and actor.

Miss Jessie Haage, always the servicely popular with a Paducah audience, was alike charming and tactful as "Miss Andrews," the target of both young men's arrows of affection, and Miss Nell Murrian as "Jessie," won the admiration and applause of all. The denouement came when Jessie, the servant, under the impression that Yardsley has proposed to her, attempts to break off her engagement with Hicks, the coachman, and comes near breaking up housekeeping instead. Explanations are made and Yardsley, at the end of his tether, ingeniously confesses that he intended the proposal for Miss Andrews, and is then and there accepted. Barlow, the duke, with becoming resignation, consenting to become best man.

But the event of the evening, and the one to which all looked forward with more or less eagerness, was the presentation of "David Garrick," with Mr. Matthew Carney in the title role. Briefly, the plot in the play is that Ada Ingot, daughter of a rich East India merchant, attends a performance of "Hamlet" and falls in love with David Garrick, the eminent actor, who at the same time falls in love with her, whom he sees in a box. Her father has an aversion to players, and desiring her to marry her cousin "Clivvy," finally deems every thing else futile, sends for Garrick, who not knowing that Ingot's daughter is the one with whom he has fallen in love, agrees to cure her of her infatuation, and is invited to diner the next day for that purpose.
When he ascertains her identity he is shocked, overcome, but true to his promise proceeds to carry out his agreement, by simulating drunkenness, insulting the other guests, and denouncing with a lavish hand, dishts, furniture and his sweetest good opinion of him. The daughter is disenchanted until she accidentally finds out through her cousin, who heard Garrick relate the incident at the club, that he was only acting.
The genius of young Garrick unexpectedly arouses old Nigot's admiration, and he not only consents to the marriage, but asks Garrick to honor him by accepting his daughter.

Mr. Carney is undoubtedly a genius, and as "David Garrick," the actor, was a favorite with all. He is an actor who loses his own identity in that of the character he assumes, and these are the only real actors.
His delineation of the drunkard was especially fine and won for him much applause from his many admirers.
Mr. Ed Paxton, who is also a favorite on the amateur stage, won much laurels as Simon Ingot, who is something of a cynic and a foe to actors and their profession. Mr.
Paxton is particularly good in this kind of roles, and was well suited to the part, and well applauded.

Mr. Will Farley, as "Clivvy," the disposed lover of Ada, played the sub and profligate well, and like the others received well merited applause.
Mr. Farley is one of the best actors in the city.

Miss Nell Murrian, in the leading female role, was surprisingly fine as "Ada," who falls in love with the actor. This part varies for much emotional acting, and Miss Murrian portrayed it in a manner that would do credit to a professional, and without a single error. Miss Murrian is most popular with Paducah audiences.

Mr. Albert Heich, as "Mr. Jones," Mr. Ang. Theuring as "Mr. Brown," Mr. Ed Paxton, as "Thomas a servant," and "George, the actor's valet," Miss Jole Thag, as "Mrs.
Smith," and Miss Mae Paxton, as "Miss Armintha Brown," had minor roles, and appear in only one act, but they all acquitted themselves most creditably, and furnished much fun for the audience.
As a whole, there was a pleasing lack of amateurishness about the entire performance.
There was perhaps a trifle awkwardness and "amateurishness" in the kissing and embracing, not that the writer is any authority, but the best, and decidedly the safest, excuse for this apparent defect is that the young people are not used to it.
BAD DRIVES OUT GOOD.

Senator Joseph A. Smith That There Can Be But One Standard of Value.
No government can maintain an immense more than one standard of value any more than it can maintain more than one standard of weight, or more than one standard of measure, or more than one standard of length. If there be two or more standards of different value, the standard of lower value will in practice become the only standard.
If one goes into the market, the law that he will receive tons of 2,000 pounds or three feet in length, and lays carpets by the yard at a fixed price, there will be delivered to him carpets measured in yards of two feet in length.
If he buys cloth by the ton, the law being that a ton shall be equal 2,000 or 2,240 pounds, he will receive tons of 2,000 pounds each. If he buys potatoes by the bushel, the law being that a bushel shall contain either two pecks or four pecks, there will be delivered to him bushels of two pecks each.

On the same principle, if the law be that a dollar is either a real coin, with a bullion value equal to its face value, or a silver coin, with a bullion value of only half its face value, and not convertible at par into gold coin, the sellers of the coins, the gold and the silver, will be paid in dollars of the lesser value.
There never has been and there never can be in any country at any time a bimetallic standard, and the attempt to create a double standard has never produced anything better than an aftermath standard, with the inevitable confusion and injustice with reference to past contracts and agreements, with reference to future contracts.

Indeed, Senator Jones admits in the report of the silver commission of 1875 that "whatever under the double standard, and therefore a variance between the legal and market value of the metals, the standard would be practically based on one metal, and it the cheaper and more readily obtainable one."
The financial history of the United States and of France furnish conclusive evidence of the accuracy of the senator's view on this point.—C. Stuart Peterson.

More Stories in Circulation.
If there was any actual relation between the quantity of money in circulation and national prosperity, we would have a record on file. For more than a twelve-month now the amount of money in circulation in the United States has been steadily on the increase.
On July 1, 1896, about the time the Chicago platform was in the process of integration and the month of the paper was full of demands for more of the currency in circulation, the total money in circulation in the United States was $1, 200,000,000, making $2.50 per capita on an estimated population of 72,000,000.
November 1, 1896, on the eve of the election, when the people of the United States were to give their verdict against a debased and depreciated currency, the money in circulation was $1,627,000,000.
On July 1, 1897, the money in circulation was $1,792,000,000.
To fully appreciate this increase of the money in circulation in the United States it is only necessary to say that in the last twelve months it amounted to $592,000,000, or more than $2 per capita of the entire population.

While the circulating circulation has passed all previous high-water marks, the per capita circulation is still $13.30 below that of 1892, just before the panic.
But the per capita is now higher than it was in 1890 or any year in the history of the republic prior to that. Then why are the times not as good as they were along in the late '90s? Simply because good times depend on public confidence and industrial activity, and not on the amount of money in circulation. This is simply the teaching of the old proverb that a double expense is better than a slow shilling.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Increasing Volume of Currencies.
The money supply of this country and of the world at large is not contracting, but increasing rapidly. The low price of farm products is caused by increased production, not by exhaustion of silver, and it is the exhaustion of silver would not increase the value of silver and would be the cause of great hardships and privations to the wage-earning classes and all persons of small means.

A Standard of Value.
Our monetary standard is nothing but a measure of value. Upon its stability depend growth and prosperity.
It must be recognized as the very best standard as well as at home. If our national standard is to be secure with the leading nations of the world is to coincide and develop.

Capital—By dividing this one dollar it becomes two, which makes more money. I pay you these two dollars for wages, you see.
Labor—But when I go to buy bread I find them only worth one, so I don't get B. From "Balderson's Curious Money," by David A. Wells.
Three Facts.
1. The money supply of this country and of the world at large is not contracting, but increasing rapidly. The low price of farm products is caused by increased production, not by exhaustion of silver, and it is the exhaustion of silver would not increase
the value of silver and would be the cause of great hardships and privations
to the wage-earning classes and all persons of small means.

"Free Coinage" Demand Misleading.
If any advocate of the free coinage of

WRITTEN AT RANDOM.

Justice Winchester relates a humorous incident on a number of the present police force. It happened several years ago, and since then, it may be said to the officer's credit, he has overcome the two predominant evils exemplified in the anecdote.

The officer in question sat at a table one night playing cards with a crowd of friends. There was nothing to mar the hilarity of the occasion except the humors and swarms of large bugs, which, attracted by the light, at times almost obscured the players and the cards.

The officer would make a catch, clean them all off of the table and take a pull at the large bottle that supplied the crowd with what they required to keep up their spirits. Every time he struck at the pesky insects he turned to the bottle for consolation, and so often did he do this that the others soon began laughing at him. Every time he struck at the bugs and "bit" the bottle there was a loud laugh. They would play out a hand and the officer then cleared away the insects that had fallen by the wayside, and took another drink. Every body laughed. The officer began to get mad.

Between the bottle, bugs and laughter, he was completely exasperated. He finally made one long, last swipe at the crowd of hovering insects, and as the crowd burst into another laugh, he yelled as he smashed his fist on the table, "Any man that says them little bugs is a liar—d—n him and a—n of a—n!" and that broke up the card party.

"I've been here a long time," remarked a prominent doctor yesterday "and I never saw so many drunken men in one day before as I saw Sunday. I don't know whether I just happened to see more, or whether there were more, but I know I saw at least a dozen who couldn't walk without assistance."

A large music box was placed in the Palmer House lobby yesterday. Accompanying it was a large placard bearing the information that for five cents, deposited in the proper place, tonight, a slot, the instrument would play four times.

Now, that music box was either made wrong, or else it was out of the afternoon a crowd of boys discovered that all you had to do was to drop a nickel in the slot and start it, and keep it wound up, and it would play all day. It wound up by means of a crank on the side, and anybody can wind it. The result was that they sat around the box all the afternoon and had the pleasure of hearing it play incessantly, taking turns about it, in winding it each time it ran down. And this for the small sum of five cents!

The man who imagines that a newspaper reporter doesn't have troubles of his own, besides having often to share those of other people, has missed connection somewhere, or else his brother is off. If he reflects a thing and withholds news, the probability is that it will fit a dozen or more people, and he will have 'em all after him either to find out who told him, or else to necessitate a coroner's inquest. If he calls names he will have the man concerned and all his friends and relatives camping on his life. If he writes up a case in court and it appears unfavorable to one defendant, he and his lawyer will call around to demand a retraction, although the article may be consistent with the decision of the court. If little Johnnie dies, he must have two sticks of snuff to carry to heaven with him as a recommendation, and if James and Mary marry they must be pretty, popular and prominent, or their relatives will know the reason why. If Aunt Sue gets sick the reporter is expected to know all about it, and if Uncle Mame goes to his old home on a visit he must head the personal column as one of the "pioneer and most respected citizens."

He must keep the names of all his friends out of the police court report—and of all their friends, and if he suppresses a name an hundred times and then puts it in once, the latter will outweigh the former by several tons, and he will get hecked just the same. If Brown sues Jones, it must be kept out of the paper, for it usually fails to add to the credit of the reporter. But then as the darky who was going to the "pen" yesterday sang, "We're not the only poodles on the bench," and I there are others.

It was very cruel, but the dear girls will do cruel things sometimes. According to reports, there were a great many sleepy people on board the Fowler's the other night, when the Odd Fellows' excursion was returning from Cairo. The stationers were turned over to the ladies, while the men were allowed the delectable privilege of sleeping on the tables, desks, or of hanging themselves up on nails in the wall and snatching a snooze in this way. A crowd of Metropolis girls took possession of a stateroom and stored themselves away there deep in the berths. They instructed the clerk to wake them when the boat reached Metropolis, and then, tired out completely, fell asleep. It chanced that a crowd of Paducah girls overheard the instructions given to the clerk, and not having been able to get a stateroom decided to use strategy. When they reached Mound City they knocked on the stateroom door, and one in coarse masculine tones shouted, "All off for Metropolis!" The Metropolis girls soon began swarming out, with half-closed eyes and disheveled hair, and the Paducah girls took possession of the stateroom and locked the door. The other girls discovered that they had been deceived in time to keep from getting left at Mound City, but they lost the sleep that was rightfully theirs.

Officer Dick Sutherland, of the city, made a tour of the penitentiary yesterday at Edwille. He came across an old grey-headed man with long, unkempt beard that reached almost to his waist.

"Old man, how long have you been here?" inquired the officer.

"Be—d—d if I can tell you," was the indifferently reply. "I've been here so long that I've forgotten myself. I know one thing though, and that is that I have to stay here until I die."

He paused to stroke his beard a moment, and then continued, "There's only one thing I want to get out of here for. I want to see 'What is that,' inquired the officer, 'to see your family?'"

"No, not that," said the convict, "I want to get out long enough to go to Cuba and get the head of that son of a b—h Weyer. I tell you I could do it, too. I could go down and get his head and bring it back without a scratch!"

The man proved to be a murderer named Phelps, from the mountains.

DRIFTWOOD

GATHERED ON THE LEVER

NOTES

The tow boat, Mound-Banner, arrived out of the Tennessee this morning.

The big towboat Smoky City passed up early this morning with a big tow of empties.

The gauge showed this morning 26.6 and falling, there being a fall of eleven inches last night.

The tow boat, City of Chattanooga, left yesterday afternoon for the Tennessee after a tow of iron.

The elegant big side-wheeler, New South is due to pass here today from Cincinnati en route to New Orleans.

The Joe Fowler, somewhat behind time, arrived and departed for Evansville this morning with a very fair trip.

The towboat Kenton did not get away for Nashville yesterday afternoon as was expected, but left this morning instead.

The Champion Dick Fowler, after waiting for the Joe Fowler to arrive from Evansville, left for Cairo on time at 8:30. She carried a fair freight cargo.

The H. W. Butterfield, which was due here this morning out of the Cumberland and had not arrived at a late hour but is expected to be in and out before dark.

The palatial steamer City of Clarksville is due here out of the Ohio river this afternoon. She will leave on her return to Elizabethton tomorrow at noon.

The towboat H. E. Frisbie passed down this morning with a mixed tow. Among her pieces was the new dredge boat, "Emma," belonging to the United States government.

Business continued quiet on the levee and wharf this forenoon. The arrival and departure list was very slim and the steamers that were in and out carried very light loads.

The little tri-weekly packet Ashland City arrived out of the Tennessee river last night and left on her return to Danville this morning at 10 o'clock. She carried a moderate trip both ways.

The big broad horn Defender passed down last night at 11 o'clock from Pittsburgh en route to the southern line with a big lot of nuggets in tow. The harbor tug Ida took out to her forty wheel arms and buckets to repair her broken wheel, having been bringing in a big barge of coal for the St. Bernard Coal Co.

The towboat Penguin now sails the banner for bringing the biggest raft that was ever brought out of the Tennessee. It also contained one of the biggest logs that was ever floated down that stream. The Penguin is a small craft but she was commanded by two veteran steamboat men who brought her through all right. Capt. Mort Fernum was steersman, while Engineer Sargent Moss furnished the power.

Is This Really Desirable?

Should this country alone attempt free exchange of silver at the ratio of sixteen to one, it would thereby give notice that we are ready to exchange for all countries a quantity of gold which is valued at one dollar in every civilized country for a quantity of silver which represents in the markets of the world about 50 cents.

In a very short time all gold would disappear. It would be hoarded to await a premium or shipped to countries where it was more appreciated. Only silver would remain our circulating medium. We would be a silver basis. Our standard would be a dollar worth little more than 50 cents in every country but our own.

All values would quickly adjust themselves to this depreciated dollar and would fluctuate with its changing value in international exchange.
